Tenders Called For New School—Salaries Discussed

Tenders for the two room addition to the West Coleman school will be called for as the result of Monday night School Board meeting. Members rechecked the plans and reviewed prospects for the future, deciding to call for tenders at this time. Well aware of red tape and time lags in matters such as this, the board felt tenders must be called in order to assure classrooms for next fall. Estimated cost of the addition will be $33,000.

Principal Allen reported the school operating fine with a total enrolment of 644 and an average attendance of 95.9%. Following his monthly report, he outlined the tentative picture that will face the school board next year. Birth statistics show a probable enrolment of 80 in grade one next year and 80 to 85 in the same grade the following year. As it appears, this time next year will see 3 each of grades 1 and 2; 2 grades 3, 4 and 6. The remaining grades are expected to remain much the same as this year. There will be over 700 enrolled next year and two additional rooms, demanding a staff of 25 teachers. There will be no bus transfer for grades 1 and 2, some of those in grades 3, 4, 5 and 6, being transferred. All the movement will be from Central to Cameron school.

Teacher salary schedules demanded considerable time with the Board carefully studying the schedule presented by the teachers. This plan, approved by the Western Conference of Teachers Association showed the board the emphasis on increasing on the basis of training not on experience. Board members felt that actual teaching experience should affect salaries. The new plan calls for increased salaries on both training the teacher has received and on actual experience. Careful study showed the plan to double some present wages and greatly increase all teachers salaries. The board were emphatic in setting aside the proposal and will ask the teachers to meet with them to discuss the present salary schedule and make any revision mutually agreeable.

Snow removal received at mention at this meeting with a notice from the town that should the town crews remove the snow from the walks, the Board would be assessed for the costs.

Mrs. Alice Buckna requested use of the school for the Western Board of Music exams in February. Permission was granted.

Creston to Meet Coleman Grands Sun.

Creston Intermediates are scheduled to perform at the local arena for the first time this year on Sun., Jan. 18.

Weather permitting the Creston crew will pit their skill against Bill Gates fast moving Grands. Reports state the Creston team to be a young crew that may extend the Grands for a win despite the score in the game at Creston.

Turn out and see hockey that gives both speed and the finish that comes with experienced hockey players. Coleman Grands show promise of going a long way down the playoff trail. Climb on the band wagon now and enjoy the wins, losses and thrills with them.

Booster tags are on sale now. Show your appreciation to the players that are putting Coleman back on the sports page.

Ray Little Cowboy Show Here Tuesday

Ray Little brings his Radio cowboy show back to the Polish hall next Tuesday night for a return engagement. Offering the public the regular concert at the opening, Ray and his gang promise as equally an entertaining time as he gave here before Christmas.

Dancing to the smooth western rhythm will follow the concert.

Almost at the three-quarter mark is the TB Christmas Seal fund for Lethbridge and district, it is reported by L. M. Paton, chairman of the Lethbridge Kiwanis Club Christmas Seal committee, with receipts of $17,250 Friday afternoon, leaving $7,750 still to be collected before the $25,000 objective is reached.

Coal Prospects Bright Pass Leads in all Respects

(Summarized from Lethbridge Herald)

Despite growing marketing problems, Southern Alberta's important coal mining industry saw its 1952 production decline by only about 265,000 tons from the previous year, and, generally speaking, the position of the industry remains at a relatively high level.

The three major coal fields of this area — Lethbridge, Taber and the Crow's Nest Pass, during the past year produced 2,586,000 tons of coal having a minehead value conservatively estimated at $14,700,000. This tonnage amounted to more than 36 per cent of the coal production for all Alberta in 1952.

During the past year the mines in the south's three major coal fields employed an average of 2,674 men and their total earnings amounted to $7,500,000.

Notwithstanding the production declines imposed upon Alberta's coal mining industry by the crude oil and natural gas developments, the coal mining industry is still of major importance in Southern Alberta and there are suggestions that it may become increasingly more valuable within a matter of years.

Even its lower production of 1952 can be regarded as higher than average for the past decade from a tonnage standpoint and substantially higher in monetary terms.

Southern Alberta's coal mining has been harassed by a shortage of skilled miners for more than a dozen years, and even at this time could readily absorb a few hundred more workers if they were available. Responsible for the shrinking of working force in coal mining is the fact that fewer men have been going into the industry than have been leaving it, even though millions of dollars have been spent in the southern coal fields to mechanize operations and take much of the back-breaking labor out of coal mining work.

Many experienced miners have been leaving the industry to retire, particularly since a pension scheme has been put into operation by the United Mine Workers of America, but the industry has not been obtaining enough young men to take their places. Pay rates have increased, miners in the Crow's Nest mines having a slightly higher rate.

Community Saddened At The Passing Of Popular Resident

George Henry Roper, 51, long time resident of Coleman, passed away in hospital Jan. 3 following a five weeks illness.

Mr. Roper was born in Nottinghamshire, England, and came to Canada as a youth with his parents who first settled in Cowley, where the late Mr. Roper attended school. The family later moved to Frank, where the deceased became employed with the Canadian Pacific Railway. He remained there until the family moved to Coleman in the early 1920's. He then became employed as a plumber and tinsmith for Parkinson's Hardware until the outbreak of World War II in 1939 when he joined the Royal Canadian Engineers.

After serving in the army for approximately six months he was discharged and on his return to Coleman worked as a steam engineer at the International Mine where he remained until about five weeks ago when he became ill.

He was predeceased by his mother, Mrs. Clara Roper, at Frank in 1939.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Sofie Roper at Coleman; his father, Fred Roper at Nelson, B.C.; two sons, Walter at Coleman and Gordon at Penticton, B.C.; one brother, Albert Roper at Creston; five sisters, Mrs. Clara McMillan of Bellvue, Mrs. Ossie (Mabel) Ostrum of Lumby, B.C., Mrs. Fred Grosland and Mrs. James Burns, both of Pincher Creek, and by one grandchild at Penticton.

Funeral services were conducted from the United Church in Coleman Tuesday, Jan. 6, and interment was in the Coleman Union Cemetery. The Rev. A. Morrison officiated.

Many men working on the contract basis have been averaging between $30 and $50 for every day of work and the overall average for the industry is estimated at $15 per day man.

During the past year the marketing problems of the coal mining industry received an additional reverse blow—the salubrious weather through to the end of the year greatly reduced needs for winter fuel and the two grain harvests in one year (one in the spring to clean up the 1951 harvest) kept the farmers and their elevator agents (handling coal) too busy to concern themselves seriously over coal supplies. However, a note with bright possibilities for the steam coal of the Pass came with the announcement of possible large scale steam electric plants for the area.

Following is the monthly production for the Crow's Nest mines with the December figures estimated:

	1951	1952
January	213,000	195,030
February	193,225	200,226
March	172,580	186,924
April	206,062	164,075
May	207,155	181,635
June	220,373	178,304
July	212,494	196,923
August	220,408	161,804
September	173,153	178,144
October	183,350	165,646
November	211,415	211,000
December	168,935	168,900
Totals	2,301,261	2,187,515

Numbers of men employed in the south fields last year were as follows: Lethbridge, 829; Crow's Nest Pass, 2,057, and Taber, 88. The average number of days worked were: Lethbridge, 148; Crow's Nest Pass, 202; Taber, 152.

The production of the Alberta section of the Crow's Nest Pass, western Canada's largest and most productive coal field, to 2,391,251 tons in 1951 and then declined to 2,187,515 tons in 1952.

Studied provincially, Alberta's coal mining industry has not suffered in anything resembling a crippling fashion during the years of the sweeping crude oil and natural gas development boom and the growing use of substitute fuels.

Seasonal employment, snow removal and condition of town streets and roads consumed many words and considerable time, requests being made that the town enforce the snow removal by law and rehire men laid off to clean areas under the town's jurisdiction. This discussion led to statements that the town was going back in matter of roads and sidewalks with a counter claim showing a budget of $39,000 set for public works, a budget exceeded by $3,000.

Twenty-six rinks are entered in the men's schools, split evenly into two sections, A and B. Winners of the sections will play off at the conclusion of the season. Skips are, Section A, Panek, Fontana, Anderson, Hogan, Hewitt, Plant, Kerr, Knight, Jenkins, Jr., Gentile, D'Appolonia, Antle and J. Moncalibetti. Section B, DeLoach, Rinaldi, Maynard, Roughhead, Chalmers, Liddle, Jenkins, Spivak, Hill, Malachuk, Fraser, Jenkins, and Morency.

Eight rinks will battle it out for the honors in the ladies curling under the leadership of skips. A. Pavush, J. Shields, P. Pow, L. McLeod, L. Maynard, J. Kavane, E. Fraser and I. Slepak.

The high school curling club has reorganized for the season under the leadership of President Bill Kerr. Wallace Neal serves as secretary treasurer and Virginia Tibergien vice-president.

Nine rinks are entered with skips Jenkins, Kerr, Ryman, Wilkie, Lathwell, Neale, Parks, Clark and Ryman.

People shop where they are invited—that's why it pays to advertise.

Bob Parks Wins Curling

Bob Parks, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Park, skipped his Mount Royal College rink to victory in the Lethbridge School Bonspiel. The rink annexed the Pyramid Motors Event, receiving wallets and individual trophies. Personnel of the rink was B. Park, skip; N. Price, 3rd; M. Gammon, 2; W. Pietrasky, lead. Bob and Walter Pietrasky visited with Mr. and Mrs. J. Park during the holidays.

Council Hears Pressing Need For Cemetery Expansion

Despite controversial issues regarding more heated discussion before the assembly a report that the Catholic cemetery was in need of expansion and faced the barrier of rocky ground. Council had looked over the other cemetery earlier this year and felt that some action was necessary.

Information released by Mr. Toppano showed the problem to be greater than expected. Some consideration will be given to locating new cemeteries north of the present sites.

Seasonal employment, snow removal and condition of town streets and roads consumed many words and considerable time, requests being made that the town enforce the snow removal by law and rehire men laid off to clean areas under the town's jurisdiction. This discussion led to statements that the town was going back in matter of roads and sidewalks with a counter claim showing a budget of $39,000 set for public works, a budget exceeded by $3,000.

Picture Of Saturn Taken By World's Largest Telescope

IF NOTHING ELSE, these kittens get plenty of mothering. Their natural mother, the black feline at left, takes care of the feeding operations, then the bantam hen takes over after meal time and uses her wings to cover the kittens. When exercise rolls around, the cat, the hen and the four kittens, go for a walk together. All of them live on the Cecil R. Barnes farm near Mishawka, Ind.

A CLOSEUP OF THE PLANET SATURN—Seen above is the first photograph of Saturn taken by the world's largest telescope, the 200-inch Hale reflector on Palomar mountain, near Pasadena, California. The picture does not represent the best that the Palomar instrument is capable of making. With better atmospheric conditions it will be possible some day to secure even clearer and sharper pictures. Saturn is easily identified by its rings, the broad bands of minute particles believed to have been formed around the planet in eons past. Twice during Saturn's 30-year revolution around the sun, the three main concentric rings present a knife-blade edge to the earth. In this view they tilt just enough to reveal their circular shape but not their triple nature. —Central Press Canadian.

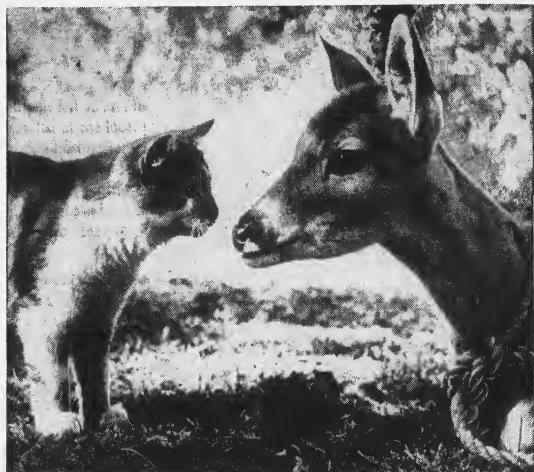

A "SHEPHERD" AND HER FLOCK—Princess, a 10-year-old German shepherd dog, owned by Larry Siegler, Jr., of Louisville, Ky., relaxes in the sun but keeps an ear peeled for complaints from her litter of 11 puppies lined up on the wall. Princess had 12 pups but one died.

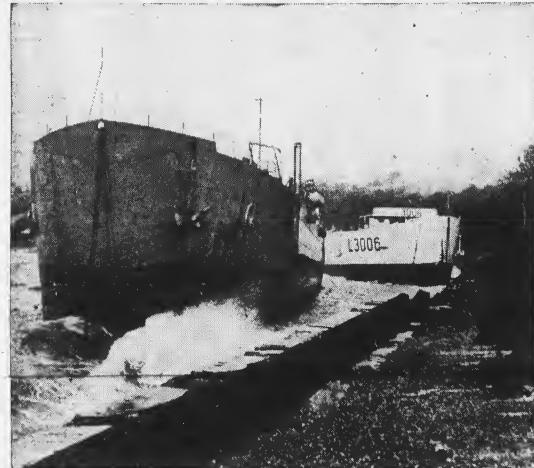

GALLANT GREETING FOR SWEDEN'S "QUEEN OF LIGHT"—Twenty-one-year-old Kerstin Ormo, crowned Sweden's Lucia, or "Queen of Light," was given a gold necklace by François Mauriac, 1932 Nobel prize winner in literature, after she had been crowned in the annual festival held at Stockholm's city hall. Mauriac presented the blonde beauty with a golden necklace. —Central Press Canadian.

U.N. MEMBERS TO RECEIVE COPIES OF BILL OF RIGHTS—Patrick Murphy Malin, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union, is shown mailing parchment facsimiles of the American Bill of Rights to Joseph Stalin, U.S.S.R.; Winston Churchill, England, and Mohammed Zahir Shah of Afghanistan, from a New York letter box.

A CAT AND A DEER don't always see eye to eye, but these two get together nicely. They are both pets at a lodge near Coeur D'Alene, Idaho, and the photographer got busy when he saw Curious Kitty move up for a nose-to-nose look. Later the cat and deer showed talent as impersonators by "playing like two puppies".

HOWLING GALE DRIVES BRITISH SHIPS TO SHORE—These two landing craft were driven ashore by a rampaging December weather storm that struck the British Isles. The howling winds lashed the isles with a fury recorded in excess of 100 miles per hour in many cities. With the winds came blizzards, sleet, a cycle of fog and snow that closed roads, drove shipping to shelter and halted flying. —Central Press Canadian.

WEARY FROM HER MATERNAL CHORES but proud as punch is Beauty, pedigreed French poodle owned by Roger Huard of Montreal. Looking down at her "very unusual" litter of 12 pups, she probably is a trifle worried about the feeding problem. But needless to say, because her master already is at work rigging up a feeding station that will hold 12 filled and easily-reached infant feeding bottles.

MORE CANADIAN PLANES FLY TO BRITAIN—A line-up of Sabrejet fighters at the Royal Canadian Air Force station at North Luffenham. Flanked by Canadian planes (numbered with checkered noses), are two of the first of between 300 and 400 Sabrejets built by the U.S. and Canada and now transferred to the Royal Air Force to strengthen NATO air defence. Several hundred British pilots are training in Canada and the U.S. to fly the planes. Other squadrons of Sabrejets are being flown across the Atlantic by Canadian pilots. —Central Press Canadian.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

SHOCK OF A LIFETIME

By SAMUEL CAMPBELL

There are approximately one thousand words in this story. Before nine hundred and seventy of them are used up, someone will die!

How do I know? Am I psychic? No, I am a research scientist who has been toying with the idea of discovering the mystery of the life force ever since my college days. Tonight, I think I shall find it. If not, I shall come closer to it than ever before. And you shall help me.

At the height of the storm when you came rappelling loudly on my door, I was down in the laboratory. So few people ever come near this lonely place that the noise startled me. I have grown accustomed to the deadly silence around the castle. It is the quiet of the grave.

I was hoping that someone like yourself, big and strong, would lose his way tonight and happen to the castle. I do not do this. And now that you have had coffee and dried off a bit, I'll show you where I work. Later, if you will be so kind, you may assist me in my experiment.

I notice you are surprised at the amount of equipment you see in my laboratory. I have my own power plant, as you will see, and more than a million dollars' worth of electrical and chemical apparatus.

No, there is no one else in the castle. I live here alone. I did have a young Chinese medical student, Albert Chang, as an assistant, but he died about six months ago. That was quite a work. You haven't heard those stories, have you? Well, it's just as well. Plain tommyrot, that's all!

Yes, these are the animal quarters. I have hundreds of white rats and guinea pigs that I use as subjects. Of course, I have reached the stage where the ideal subject would be a human being. As a matter of fact, I reached that stage about six months ago. But that was before I was isolating the ethics of the profession. I never could quite understand that point. You see, I am trying to perfect a method of bringing the dead back to life — my subject must be dead before it is of any use to me.

How long? Oh, I have revived dogs and guinea pigs that have been technically dead for four or five days . . . some of them a week.

Hmm? Yes, they seemed quite normal. Of course, just what the after-effects on a human being would be I have yet to learn.

No! There is no mechanical heart or artificial respiration. I depend entirely on shock. I have machines capable of generating over a million volts of electricity . . . man-made lightning bolts. But I have found that the shock they produce is somewhat mysterious. Therefore, I have spent my life perfecting a method which uses the natural lightning from an electric storm such as we have tonight. I suppose it was too dark when you came up the driveway to see the 100-foot aerial on top of the tower.

Dangerous? No, I take every precaution. If I am fortunate enough to have the lightning strike the top of the pole, an immeasurable voltage flows down through well-insulated wires into my laboratory. Of course I must have everything in readiness. The subject is stretched out on a regular operating table; one electrode is placed on the head, another is inserted into the brain itself. It almost touches the cerebral hemisphere. This particular area of the brain . . . in my findings over the past fifty years, where the life force itself lies. All the great medical men bluntly state that once a nerve cell dies or is destroyed, it cannot be regenerated. With this I heartily disagree. I have proved my point with animals a dozen times over. Now it remains to be tested on a human.

You are looking at me with a queer expression. Perhaps you think me a "mad scientist," perhaps that your own life is in particular danger. I am perfectly sane. I may be a trifle irritable at times, and maybe a little eccentric. But my sheltered, academic life and the nature of my experiments have been largely to blame for this.

But it seems to me that I am doing a great deal of talking tonight. Perhaps I am excited. Every time we have an electric storm it affects me the same way. When I saw the weather report yesterday, I began to prepare the subject for tonight. I am using a Great Dane, a beautiful dog that I have had for the past five days ago in the woods. Apart from the fact that he is tonight's subject, I should like to have him back. He was a great pet around the castle. But what a pity we haven't a better subject than a dog!

Now for your assistance, please. While I manipulate this dog, would you be so kind as to hold these two brass rods . . . one in each hand? About a minute later, I will tell you what did not last crack of thunder did you? That's because I didn't hear that last crack of lightning . . . much slower!

U.S. Investments In Canada Top List

WASHINGTON — Private investments by U.S. firms in Canada, at more than $3,500,000,000, were higher than in any other country at the end of 1939, the commerce department said.

It said that total American investments in foreign countries have jumped in the last nine years from a little more than $7,000,000,000 to about $13,750,000,000.

U.S. investments in the countries of Latin America topped $4,500,000,000.

Lady Trappers Create "No Man's Land"

If a man — any man — steps into the sunlight of Mrs. Nancy McCullum's dead duck, that's the general idea she has successfully instilled to the men around Pelican Narrows, Northern Saskatchewan, where she and three other ladies of the Trappers' Council of the area, operate trap lines for women only. Mrs. McCullum, a Cree Indian, has laid down the law — her law — after she had reasons to suspect two-footed wolves were raiding her trap lines. So far no mere male has attempted to find out if she is fooling. They suspect she isn't. She supports herself and a grand-daughter by trapping.

Mrs. Mary Ballantyne has five teen-age children, assisted by the proceeds from her trapline which she operates along with Mrs. McCullum. She is the only one of the four women trappers who allows herself the luxury of a dog team. This season the yield from the traps has been poor, but the women are hoping that their "preserve" will show a profit in succeeding seasons.

—Central Press Canadian Photo. The private trapping territory of the Indian women spreads over 10,000 miles in the area shown. It's cold, lonely and almost totally uninhabited.

Prairie Climate Good For Raising Chinchillas

WINNIPEG — Four thousand chinchillas are now being raised in the prairie provinces, the annual report of the National Chinchilla Breeders of Canada showed.

The report said the prairie climate has been found ideal for the little animal which originated in the high-water-plateau of the Andes Mountains of South America.

Although a few experimental pets are being taken from the prairie animals this year, the report said, a tremendous increase in population will be necessary before extensive pelting is under way.

Chinchilla ranching in the west is only several years old.

In annual election results, also announced by the national organization, C. E. Addison of Rivercrest, Manitoba, was elected prairie director. Addison's ranch is five miles north of Winnipeg. He is founder of the Manitoba branch of the organization and served as its first president.

GREAT DIFFERENCE

There is a great difference between the right word and the word that is almost right. For instance, you can call a woman a kitten, but not a cat; a mouse, but not a rat; a chicken, but not a hen; a duck, not a goose; a vision, but not a sight.

Accused — No, I don't. I was eight before I was four-score."

A visiting politician was asked by the chairman if he would like a drink before making his speech in the village hall.

"Quite unthinkable," said the politician, "for three reasons: (1) I object to drinking; (2) I strongly object to politicians drinking before a speech; (3) I have just had a couple anyway."

"Yes, sir: I'm a self-made man."

"Lucky stiff. I'm a rebuilt job by a wife and three daughters."

"So you've broken off your engagement. You once told me that your girl was the apple of your eye."

"I know I did. But she's decided to be another fellow's peach."

He: "Remember, darling? Last night you said there was something about me you could love?"

She: "Yes, but you spent it all."

"Do you know that my bills for clothes this year are exactly double what they were last year?"

"Goodness! I don't see how your husband can afford it."

"He can't. But then, he couldn't afford it last year either, so what's the difference?"

When the coast of Florida was sparsely populated and hurricanes wrecked sailing vessels on its shores, the people of the towns would hurry out and "salvage" all they could from damaged vessels.

One Sunday, a small boy dashed into the church service to announce that another ship had just been washed up. The congregation dashed like a tidal wave for the doors, when the preacher intoned pontifically, "Wait! I have but eight more words to say to you."

The impatient people shuffled restlessly, while the preacher walked to the door. Placing his hand on the door-knob, he said: "Now, let us all get a fair start."

A doctor was summoned to a wild district in the Highlands, and after seeing his patient he said to her husband, "You've been trying to do a bit of doctoring yourself, haven't you, woman?"

"Aye," said the man, "I gave her a wee bit dose of ipecacuanha."

"Pooh!" said the doctor; "You might as well have given her aurora borealis."

"Aye. I kin. I was going to try that next."

A Scotsman had to send a telegram, and not wishing to spend more money than necessary wrote this:

"Bruces hurt erased, afford erected analysis hurt too infectious dead." (Ten words.)

The Scotsman who received it immediately decided it was: "Bruces is hurt. He rode a Ford. He broke it, and Alice is hurt, too. In fact, she's dead." (Nineteen words.)

NEW YORK — The whooping crane has taken another step towards extinction. An aerial census of the last living members of this tribe, which are North America's tallest birds, at their winter home in the Aransas national wild life refuge on the coast of Texas tallied just 22 of them — one less than last year.

To this total add two for the pair of captive birds at the zoo in New Orleans. There is the possibility also that a few individuals were overlooked.

Reporting the census, by the U.S. fish and wildlife service, John H. Baker, president of the National Audubon Society said:

"Each year it becomes increasingly apparent that illegal hunting is a factor in reducing the numbers of the whooping crane and increasing the threat of their extinction."

At least two of the great birds were slain this year by hunters on the migration route from northern Canada to Texas. One, picked up in Saskatchewan, died en route to Texas. The other was killed in Kansas.

The total of 24 compares with 15 in the low ebb year of 1939 and 36 at the subsequent peak in 1940. Hope exists, however, that the cranes can make still another stand.

To do this they must suffer less molestation, and they must raise more young. Only two youngsters have been identified this year at Aransas.

To counteract molestation by hunters, the Audubon society plans to intensify its educational efforts next spring.

To help the birds raise more young, there is hope that they can soon be studied on their breeding grounds. The exact location of this nesting site has been the object of widespread search for several years. It may have been spotted last summer in the Great Slave lake region of northern Canada. At least, a couple of the birds were seen there and further searches will be made.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

EIGHTY THOUSAND LETTERS . . .
EIGHTY THOUSAND SMILES

Yes . . . nearly eighty thousand letters and nearly eighty thousand smiles were handled at the local post office during the Christmas rush. Postmaster Frank Graham reports that the cancelling machine registered 79,820 letters handled here not counting parcels or papers. People on the streets tell us thousands of smiles and cheerful words were handed out by the post office staff during the rush season.

Daily visits to the Post Office often made a person marvel at the cheery atmosphere, the cordial and courteous relations between the public and the employees. This is a rare thing in civil service. It is even more remarkable when it carries over into the Christmas rush.

Whether Postmaster Graham instills this perfection in courtesy in his staff or whether he picks girls with the natural personality we do not know. However, we do know that it is admired by the public and is a plan that might well be adopted by others in public service across Canada.

SPORT
HIGHLIGHTS

Coleman Grands continued to run rampant over the other teams of the A.B.C. League and with the exception of one contest have continued to hit the two-figure scores. Grands hit the road the end of last week for contests at Kimberley and Cranbrook.

Pre-season guessing figured Coleman and Kimberley to be the teams to beat but actual contest results so far make to a person wonder. Michel-Natal, who bowed to Coleman by a convincing score, split points with the Kimberley sextette when they held them to an 8-8 tie. Cranbrook proved their mastery over the Natal-Michel pucksters by a score of 5-3. At this time Coleman remain undefeated and still appears as top dog in the league, however anything can and usually does happen in hockey.

Coleman's Alex Kovacik is holding his own in the Big 6, sharing a 5 way tie for 12th in scoring.

Grands are deserving of a far greater attendance than they have been getting to date. With the support of Coleman fans to cheer them on, the local aggregation should go a long way down the playoff trials come spring.

Merv Lesnick, former Coaler, and potential Grand netminder, is apparently doing well between the pipes for Ponoka Stampeders. Figure released by the Central Alberta Intermediate League places him as second among league netminders with a goals-against average of 2.55.

Grands Remain At Top. Loose First League Tilt

Coleman Grands tasted defeat for the first time Saturday when they dropped a 4-2 decision to Kimberley. Finding their scoring punch the next day the poured rubber at the Cranbrook squad to win 15-5.

Playing lifeless hockey at Kimberley, Grands trailed 1-0 at the end of the first, and watched their opponents increase this to 4-0 in the second. Coming to life in the final stanza Grands rapped in 2 unanswered goals. Spearheading the Coleman attack was veteran Bill Fraser who accounted for both goals. Saloff proved his worth between the pipes, playing a good game. So far this season the youthful netminder has barely been tested enough to warm up. The Kimberley game showed he posses the stuff when the goes get tough.

Custodian of the Kimberley net was Dave McLay, former Bellevue Lions and the Dynamiters for a part of this season. He formed a tight defense while Andy Port, former Calgary Buff, and Sanderson who used to patrol the ice lanes for Coleman, were on the attacking Kimberley lines.

The Cranbrook game was originally called off due to warm weather. Rescheduling the game as planned found Grands icing only 10 men, Zwolinski, Allen Vejprava and Koentges having come home. Grands led 7-0 and 11-1 at the end of the first and second. . . .

GRANDS CONTINUE MASTERY OF ABC LEAGUE

1952 went out with Coleman Grands perched high on the top of the new A.B.C. league as the undefeated team, with only Kimberley yet to meet the sharp shooters in the first round. Fernie's puckmen showed here Saturday, Dec. 27 and brought about a stop to the rampaging Grands entering the double figures, bowing out to the Gates men by a 7-5 score. The new year brought new life to the Grands on Jan. 3 when Cranbrook went down to a blistering 14-3 score.

Fernie, featuring Smith, a former New York player, failed to stop the Grands at any point giving up a 2-0 lead in the first, dropping behind 4-1 in the second. The westerners found the going a little easier in the final stanza, outscoring the Grands 4 to 3.

Cranbrook trailed 4-1 after the first session, 10-2 in the second and bowed out 14-3 at the completion of a game played on soft ice.

Reports claim the Cranbrook aggregation would have made a better showing on faster ice and will show to better advantage in later games. Grands however have found ice to their liking in other games.

W.M.S. Carol Service

At a very impressive carol service, arranged by the Women's Missionary Society of the St. Paul's United Church, Dec. 17, representatives from other lands told of unusual Christmas carols. Mrs. Emily Owen was in charge of the devotional services. Scripture readings were given by Mrs. C. Picard, Mrs. E. Mairs and Mrs. M. Duncford. Mrs. A. E. Morrison introduced the speakers.

Mrs. G. Evans sang a Belgian Christmas carol and told of Christmas in Belgium. Mrs. N. Poliski sang a Ukrainian carol, welcoming the Lord Jesus, and told of interesting customs that are still kept in this country by Ukrainians. Mrs. Peter Rukas gave a talk on Christmas in Estonia. Christmas in Japan, as observed by Japanese Christians, was explained by Mrs. Tad Kitaguchi, who also sang a carol in her native tongue. Mrs. R. B. Lowe told of the Newfoundland Yuletide.

"God's Christmas Gift To Each One of Us" was the title chosen for Mrs. T. Haythorne's message. Pianist for the evening was Mrs. John MacDonald. Lunch was served at the close of the meeting. . . . V —

THE COUSIN'S STORY

A History Of The Crows Nest Pass Area

Dawson was not impressed by the western side of the Pass which he called "extremely desolate, the forests having been almost completely destroyed by repeated fires which had swept the region since the Crows Nest Pass became a travel route." This had happened in a space of less than 10 years.

The valley of Coal Creek he described as monotonous and plateau-like in outline. He believed that the coal-bearing horizon here was the same as that east of the volcanic ranges. He named the Lizard Mountains from the creek which came down from them.

Dawson was not the only notable visitor to the Pass in 1883. Mr. George Hope Johnson, later of Calgary, took of making the trip with the Hon. F. W. Aymer. Johnson wrote: "Where there are now thousands of men from Michel down the Elk River, up the Kootenay and down the Columbia to Golden, there were in the winter of 1883-84 about 25 white men and three white women, mostly farther down, around Wild Horse Creek."

In 1886 John R. Craig, of the Oxley Ranch, made an excursion into the Crows Nest Pass accompanied by his wife, sons and daughters. These are the first white women of whom there is any record, entering the Pass. Craig wrote a description of the country, hoping that some day it might have some historical value. Craig considered that civilization ended at the ranch of John Lee, but up at the Sulphur Springs he found a pioneer in a log cabin, who proposed to build a saw-mill there.

The visiting rancher called Bluff Mountain "The Lion" and described The Gap as a narrow gorge. He noted that the road was incredibly bad and needed six fords of the Old Man River from the springs to the lake. Vehicles could go no further than Crows Nest Lake, the balance being a rough trail. Even though this trail was precipitous it was comparatively a very good trail to what it was before being improved through government aid. The area was densely forested and a game paradise, while fish were abundant.

They encountered a party of Stonies who apparently hunted regularly in the district, but were appalled by the destruction by the Indians of more game than they could possibly use.

FORMER RESIDENT ELECTED TO U.S. STATE SENATE

Paul N. Luvera, formerly of Coleman was elected to the state senate on the Republican ticket in the recent American elections.

Formerly of Coleman, Mr. Luvera was employed as an electrician and also as a grocery clerk at the Italian Co-op. He and his wife visited here last summer, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Ledieu.

Odd Notes

A trip home after five years' absence proves emphatically the changes that come about in such a short time. It also points out how small our country really is.

Visiting a lady at Eden, Man., we learned that she was a relative of Dr. McConaghay, dentist at Coleman years ago. Dr. McConaghay is now residing in Texas.

At Kelwood, Man., on a trip with the agricultural representative, we met a lady from Milk River, Alta. Farming in Manitoba holds no interest for this family and they long for Alberta once more.

Weddings

PONTISSO-VIT

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the Holy Ghost Church at 10 a.m. Dec. 20 when Miss Ita Vit became the bride of Artie Pontissso. The Very Rev. Dean Sullivan performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by E. D'Appolonia, looked charming in a floor length gown of white organdy with lily point sleeves and three-quarter length veil. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and wore opal necklace with matching earrings.

Miss Ines D'Appolonia, bride-maid, wore a floor length gown of red velvet complemented by a red velvet muff and white velvet muff with mistletoe. Best man was Joe DePiero.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D'Appolonia at which time Rev. Sullivan proposed a toast to the bride, the groom responding.

Ice Fantasies Play
At Blairstown Jan. 17

"Canadian Ice Fantasy of '53", a brand new ice show, is featuring Toronto-born Gloria Dawn who is currently America's skating sensation. Miss Dawn has made her home in Los Angeles in recent years, from which point she has received her athletic training.

At the age of nine, Miss Dawn had set her heart on becoming an Olympic swimmer, but with the appearance of Sonja Henie at the Hollywood Ice Palace, quickly changed her swimming suit for a skating costume, and since then, "Dawn" and "Skates" have been synonymous.

Due to the influence of musical parents, her father having been a Toronto Symphony conductor and her mother his pianist, Gloria was also keenly interested in dancing and specialized in ballet.

Although she studied swimming and dancing as well as figure skating, her teachers immediately recognized Gloria's distinctive skating style and encouraged her to study skating showmanship. Quickly turning pro, she joined the glittering Sonja Henie show where she rapidly rose to the top.

After a two-year tour of North and South America, Miss Dawn completed a television show in Los Angeles in time to join the Canadian Ice Fantasy as its star.

The show, featuring a cast of 36, will play at Blairstown on January 17.

The all star cast features such well-known Canadians as:

Miss Yvonne Page of Winnipeg, Man, who is the Canadian gold medalist; Bobby Hill of Missoula, Mont., famous rodeo, circus and ice comedian; Joyce McFarlane and Iris Peebles, the Twin Swirling Sensations who hail from Vancouver, B.C.

Roy Krieger from Kenora, Ont., who was the male feature with the Barbara Ann Scott show; Frances Shirley of Windsor, Ontario's sweetheart on skates, and the world-famous Flying Vendettes of Greenwich, Conn. Sonja Henie, the Ringling, Barnum and Bailey Circus, who filmed in "The Greatest Show on Earth"; they will send shivers down every spine.

The brilliant stars, supported by an all-around cast of top skaters in gorgous costumes, all under magnificent colored lighting, combine to make "Canadian Ice Fantasy of '53" truly the most extravagant ice production ever released outside the big cities.

Couple Recall Past At Time of Golden Wedding

Two of the happiest residents in the Crow's Nest Pass celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary in Blairmore on Saturday, Dec. 27. They are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lee and the chief reason for their joy is the fact that the grand old couple received a cable from Buckingham Palace in London from Her Majesty the Queen congratulating them on their diamond anniversary. The telegram received in Blairmore on Dec. 29, the true date of their anniversary, reads—“Delivery 29th via Canadian from Buckingham Palace—The Queen sends you warm congratulations and good wishes on your diamond wedding day.”

Many old timers from the Crow's Nest Pass area called in at the Lee residence over the weekend to bid the couple hearty congratulations. A celebration was held at the family home in Blairmore Saturday evening when the family and many guests enjoyed a turkey banquet, after which the honored couple were presented with a radio and other gifts from the family and friends. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

Among those present at the affair was Wally Eddy of Burns, who celebrated his ninetieth birthday on December 30. Mr. Eddy, sharp and witty for his age, was present at the Lee wedding which took place in Pincher Creek on December 29, 1892, and is the only other living person who attended that event.

PRIZED CERTIFICATE

The certificate of marriage which officially documented the wedding is still a prized possession of the Lees, who display the handwritten certificate in a frame in the living room of their home. The piece of parchment, now withered and fading with age, was signed by parson John Hanck Smith of the Church of England.

Mr. Lee, now 78, and Mrs. Lee, 72, the former Mary Ann Holloway, are enjoying perfect health. Both were born in Pincher Creek.

The couple have one son, Bill, at Blairmore. They were predeceased by a son Martin at Rock Creek, near Lundbreck. They have one daughter, Mrs. B. Vanlon of Bellevue, and were predeceased by three other daughters, Mrs. Ross Jones, who passed away at Raymond two years ago; another daughter, Ruby Lee, who died at Rock Creek, and another daughter, Liza, who died at Burns. They have nine grandchildren and Mr. Lee has one brother Fred at Rock Creek and doing. Sure enough, a few years later when I was at Rock Creek ranching, she came down and buried a lot of the town. The air that morning was filled with a dusty haze and you could smell an oily smell in the air and later that afternoon I was told that the Frank Mountain had come down as Stanford had predicted.”

After ranching in the Rock Creek district until 1918, Henry Lee came to live in Blairmore where he became employed at the Blairmore West Canadian Collieries. There he remained until 1947 when he retired on his old age pension.

Today, Henry Lee is as sturdy a man for his age as can be found anywhere. He still has all his teeth except two and this he credits to his almost constant use of chewing tobacco. His good health, he says, comes from regular exercise and plenty of outdoor life.

Mrs. Lee was born in Pincher Creek on April 1, 1880, and during her childhood attended a country school near Lethbridge where her teacher, Mari Holloway, another famous pioneer of the Crow's Nest Pass was.

Looking backward, Mrs. Lee recalls the time when her brother, Charles Holloway, an Indian scout for the North West Mounted Police, helped in the capture of the Blood Indian, Charcoal, who murdered Sergeant Lee in October, 1896.

Mrs. Lee's father, Mart Holloway, and his brother, Horace, also participated in the search for the famous Lost Lemon gold mine in the foothills, after Lemon and his partner, Blackjack, returned to tell the tale of a fabulous gold strike which has been a mystery to this day and which has lured prospectors for years.

When asked how they felt on receiving a congratulatory cable from Her Majesty the Queen both responded: “It's the nicest thing that has ever happened to us in all our life and as we look back over our many experiences none will be so thrilling as having received a personal greeting from Queen Elizabeth.”

The End Of An Era

CANADIANS WILL SHARE the pleasure of the people of Britain at the prospect of the final termination of food rationing there. The time at which it will end has not yet been definitely set, but there seems to be little doubt that it will be abolished during 1953, and there is general agreement that the present Minister of Food, Mr. Gwyn Lloyd George will be the last to hold that office. It was created thirteen years ago to meet the emergency of war, and during these years almost every major item of food has been rationed. At one time bread, meat, tea, coffee, eggs, and many other foods were available only in limited supply, but gradually the list of rationed foods has been shortened and it is hoped that it will soon be possible to remove all restrictions.

Many Local Offices Close As the food situation has improved, the work of the Food Ministry has decreased. Many local offices have closed and the ministry's staff has been reduced from more than 44,000 to 24,000. Numerous adjustments in food distribution, payments of subsidies and other matters which have been handled by the Food Ministry will have to be made before the work is completely finished, but the British people are greatly encouraged at the prospect of no longer having to present ration books, fill in forms, and stand in queues for shopping, which has been their lot since rationing was introduced in January, 1940.

Relief Will Be Shared During the war rationing was necessary in many parts of the world and it was only one of the many hardships that were part of those troubled years. In common with the people of other countries, Britons looked forward to the terminations of rationing with the return of peace. On the contrary, the grave financial crisis which followed the war left Britain unable to import adequate supplies of food, and a rigid system of rationing was continued in spite of the fact that world food supplies were no longer limited. There has been concern in Canada over the situation and there will be general satisfaction at the improvement which is now taking place. The easing of rationing will not only be a welcome relief to the people of Britain, but it is also an indication that the economic situation is improving. Canada will share Britain's satisfaction in both these facts.

Motor Industrialist Steps Down After Long Business Career

OXFORD, England.—Lord Nuffield, motor industrialist and philanthropist, recently handed the directorship of the giant British motor corporation to a younger man, ending 60 years of activity in the automobile industry.

Nuffield said that at 75, though enjoying good health he thinks it "an appropriate time to hand over my business responsibilities to a younger generation."

His successor is Leonard Lord, 55, deputy chairman of the corporation, who will also take over Nuffield's position at the head of Morris Motors and other associated companies.

Nuffield began work here as a 70-cent-a-week assistant in a bicycle store. He was making his first bicycles before he was 17 and soon made enough money to begin famous Morris-Oxford light family cars.

Rapid Progress In Development Work At Birch Lake

REGINA.—Rapid progress is being made in development work on the new copper-gold property in the Birch Lake area of northeastern Saskatchewan. This was announced by Hon. J. W. Brocksbank, Minister of Natural Resources.

The development work spoken of by the Minister, is being carried out by Hudson Bay Mining & Smelting.

The company has located two shaft sites near the shores of Birch Lake, about 10 miles west-southwest of Flin Flon.

One is situated a few hundred feet from its eastern shore, while the other is at the southern end of the lake. There appears to be a large amount of water in the lake.

Mr. Brocksbank stated that present development plans by the company indicate substantial programs at both sites.

Preparations have already been made for shaft sinking at the eastern Birch Lake site, on completion of which, the shaft sinking crew will move to the southern location. This is the first shaft to be sunk from the surface in this area of the province, in the search for the first time in years.

Although complete figures are not yet available, Alberta reports more game hunting licences, except for non-resident big-game hunters, were sold than in any other year. Sale of licences to resident hunters alone will top the 40,000 mark. Only four years ago the total was 27,000.

In Saskatchewan, it is estimated there were about 50,000 resident and non-resident bird hunters and between 25,000 and 35,000 big-game hunters.

The over-all take in Alberta is down because of the mild fall and early winter which produced little or no snow. This made birds and animals harder to hunt. Saskatchewan hunters reported the same difficulty.

Biggest worry of Alberta game officials at the moment is the unusually large number of ducks still in the province because of this mild weather. If they stay too long many of the ducks may be too thin to make the long annual migration to the southern states for the winter.

Ideal breeding conditions resulting from heavy spring and summer rains helped swell Alberta's duck population. Brood counts—young hatched in the province—increased 80 per cent over last year.

Fur trapping is getting into full swing. Close to 5,000 trappers are engaged in trapping, compared to approximately 15,000 square miles in Saskatchewan's northland. Alberta has an estimated 3,000 traplines, who last year trapped more than 2,000,000 wild animals valued at $176,000.

There is lots of fur to trap in both provinces. Prices are reported unattractive in Alberta, although in Saskatchewan they are expected to hold up fairly well, with initial prices slightly above average.

A big muskrat salvage operation is in progress in Saskatchewan, aimed at harvesting a surplus supply which may die in frozen shallow waters unless harvested now.

50,000 Drivers Prohibited In Ontario

TORONTO.—For every 25 automobile drivers in Ontario, there is one person who once drove but now is prohibited.

Some 50,000 one-time permit-holders are prohibited. More than 17,000 persons had their licences suspended in 1951 alone, says the annual report of the Ontario Motor Vehicle Branch.

Of this number, only 601 were banned because of bad driving records.

Licences were taken from the others until proof of financial responsibility is shown.

Alberta, Sask. Had Biggest Hunting Season

EDMONTON.—Alberta and Saskatchewan have closed the one of their biggest hunting seasons. A highlight of the Alberta season was that there were no hunting fatalities for the first time in years.

Although complete figures are not yet available, Alberta reports more game hunting licences, except for non-resident big-game hunters, were sold than in any other year. Sale of licences to resident hunters alone will top the 40,000 mark. Only four years ago the total was 27,000.

Hub Of North

Growing Pains Hit Whitehorse

WHITEHORSE, Y.T.—"Hub of the North." That's the way Mayor Gordon Armstrong describes this young city of 3,000 which grew out of a village of 300 within 10 years.

Through here pass the major trans-ports of the Yukon and the Alaska Highway, the Yukon and White Pass railway from Juneau, Alaska, river boats which serve the northern towns, and Canadian Pacific and Pan-American airlines.

Whitehorse, stepping stone to the Klondike goldfield at Dawson when the turn of the century, came into its own when the Alaska Highway was built in 1942.

Whitehorse, a city which thinks the centre with ice arena is more important than a city hall. It offers to travellers who use the various transportation systems.

It is growing so fast and business is brisk, Canadian Pacific Airlines has announced it intends to use big, four-engined planes similar to those in its Pacific route to service it.

Last year the first modern cocktail bar in the Yukon was opened here. The territorial government liquor by the glass. Today there are fine places to buy a drink and only four to a meal.

Growing pains are its greatest malady. It has little money but a great deal to spend on. Under the articles of its incorporation, it can borrow only comparatively small amounts.

Except in the business district, there is no running water or sewage system. Water is delivered in the morning by truck in the same manner as milk in other communities.

A new school was opened this year but it is already too small to accommodate children of city folk and of the estimated 1,500 Army and Air Force personnel living in or around the city. New cement sidewalks are being built along the wide, unpaved streets.

The first meetings of city council were held in the hotel room of City Clerk Percy Hewitt. Five thousand dollars was borrowed from the territorial government to equip an office with desks, filing cabinets and so on.

The present civic offices are small and poky. But the civic centre, financed by a $100,000 subscription, will be spacious, and will, eventually cost about $500,000.

Mayor Armstrong says Whitehorse has a long way to go before it catches up with itself, but it's getting there.

Move Started To Preserve Riel Sites In Saskatchewan

SASKATOON.—A movement has started in northern Saskatchewan to save for posterity as many as possible of the historic sites connected with the days of settlement and the Riel rebellion of 1885.

The Historical Society in the area of Duck Lake, Batoche, Fish Creek, St. Louis, St. Laurent and Carlton is behind the movement.

The Historical Society wants the historic 1885 trail winding along the South Saskatchewan river to be marked and publicized for visitors and tourists. Even today, Metis homes—dating back to 1885—may be seen along the trail. Some still have thatched roofs and out-door ovens.

U.S. FARMERS PLAN TO CUT HOG PRODUCTION

WASHINGTON.—Government hopes of a larger supply of meat this year were dimmed by an Agricultural Department report that U.S. farmers plan to produce 15 per cent fewer pigs next spring.

A farm survey indicated a spring crop of 48,000,000 pigs compared with 36,450,000 last spring, and an average spring crop of 56,242,000. Spring pigs will provide the U.S. pork supply next fall and winter.

THRILLS of the ROARIN' GAME

Good Lead An Asset

Some new curlers feel a sense of inferiority at being assigned to the lead position on a team, and cling to the idea that their stones are but a tolerated requisite and of slight importance to the rest of the rink. Nothing, though, could be further from fact.

Lead stones are just as important as are those of any position on the rink. For one thing, they determine whether a rink is going to be on the offensive or defensive throughout an end—and that's a mighty important item, for if a team can start an end offensively and maintain that happy position a big end will never pull up on them and no tough shots will have to be made.

Let the reverse take place, however, and every man in the crew strives, under pressure, to get out from under the pressure, always an uphill struggle. Well placed lead stones are a boon to the top-notch skip whose strategy for the end is always tied to those first thrown rocks, according to the rest of the team words biling the lead man as a service bowly person—which is strictly corn fresh off the cob.

O' The Broom

many games against players of no greater ability, but who know how to sweep. It's a surprise that spectators to see how well finished broom artists take hold of a slow rock that looks like "a hog", and coax it right into the house.

You can spot the western curler a mile away by his sweeping. He has been brought up on it. It's an art with him.

BOTTLE FINDS WAY ACROSS ATLANTIC OCEAN

ELMER, England.—A bottle thrown into the English Channel three years ago by a local resident Jon Miller, was found recently on the Beach of Eleuthera Island, Bahamas, by Mrs. Samuel J. McGarry, an American. Miller's business card inside the bottle has been returned to him with an invitation to visit Mrs. McGarry's home in the Bahamas.
